Art Unit: 1623

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The reasons for allowance of the claims is that none of the prior art of record disclose or suggest methods steps (a), (b), c) described in each method claimed for identifying components of members of test species that deleteriously affect members of a target species comprising the steps of (a) separating at least one member of a test species into a plurality of components; (b) exposing at least some of said separated components of said member(s) of the test species separately to members of the target species wherein the target species is a symbiont of an adjoiner species; c) examining said exposures to determine for said identification whether members of the target species have been deleteriously affected by said exposures; and one of the instant (d) method steps which include -- (d) selecting the test species from among test species that are attached or internal to a member of the adjoiner species which has not reacted to the target species as adversely as other members of the adjoiner species--; or (d) selecting the test species from among test species that are attached or internal to a member of the adjoiner species which was exposed to the target species but did not react adversely thereto as other exposed members of the adjoiner species--; or (d) selecting the test species from among test species that are attached or internal to a member of the adjoiner species which was exposed to the target species and reacted adversely thereto but not as adversely as did other exposed members of the adjoiner species--; or (d) selecting the test species from among test species that are attached or internal to a member of the adjoiner species which was exposed to the target species and reacted adversely thereto but then recovered as claimed herein.
